

Grievance Redress Mechanism

Siaya Municipality

FOREWORD

Siaya Municipality residents are entitled to the full enjoyment of human rights as guaranteed in the Constitution of Kenya, 2010 and other national, regional and international human rights instruments. However, the violation of human rights by both state and non-state actors is a global reality. That said, the fundamental human rights and freedoms contained in Chapter 4 of the Constitution of Kenya, 2010 are not mere aspirations. They have meaning and compliance with the constitutional provisions is mandatory. In our quest to ensure the policies, programmes and projects are implemented effectively, the Siaya Municipal Board must ensure that human rights and the rights of the residents are respected and protected and violations are remedied. The municipality will receive and process grievance and complaints and conduct investigations into cases of alleged abuses of human rights. It will only admit and conduct investigations into the grievances and complaints raised against it if such cases fall within its jurisdiction. In addition, there are several other avenues of addressing human rights violations which vary depending on the nature of the violations committed. As a municipality we shall opt to use alternative dispute resolution mechanisms and litigations as our forte. The municipality reaffirms our commitment to ensure that complaints are given the necessary attention as a way of improving our service delivery process. Towards achieving this end, we endeavor to have a clearly designated office and a focal point person charged with the responsibility that we deliver on this obligation. In addition to the focal point person in charge of grievances, the Municipal Manager who will not only head the Grievance Redress Mechanism (GRM) function, but also ensure that resolution of complaints receive the necessary support and goodwill. In conclusion, the municipality shall accord the Grievance Redress Mechanism adequate independence, authority, resources and the necessary support and commitment by the leadership of the institution in order for it to be effective.

3.3.3 Documentation of the complaint

A record shall be created for every complaint and shall comprise of at least the following: particulars of the complainant (name, address, contacts, next of kin, age, gender, county, reference number of relevant file or matter (if any), the nature of the complaint (what, who, when, where etc.), parties involved, relevant dates and action taken.

Complaints records shall be maintained for at least six years.

3.3.4 Assessing the complaint

An initial assessment of the nature and gravity of the complaint should be made by the receiving or front office officer to allow for categorization and prioritization. This avoids the lumping together of simple, easy-to-resolve complaints with complex time-consuming ones. It also allows an effective allocation of complaints to the most relevant officers, leading to faster processing and resolution of the matter.

Admissibility

Complaints will be reviewed to determine whether they are within the mandate (functions, conduct, services) of the institution. Other factors that may be considered to determine admissibility will be:

- whether a complaint is already being handled by another competent institution, e.g. the courts, and
- the period within which a complaint is lodged, based on the timelines that may be determined by the institution.

3.3.5 Action

- After assessment for admissibility of a complaint, the file will be allocated to an action officer or referred to the relevant bodies or institutions.
- An inquiry into the complaint will then be conducted to verify the facts and other details of the complaint before action is taken.
- At this stage the respondent should be contacted to give a response to the lodged complaint.

3.3.6 Investigation

Where investigation is required, it shall be properly planned with a clear indication of the time and resources required. The planning shall clearly establish what is to be investigated, what evidence will be gathered, who is to be interviewed, documents to be recovered, the expectations of the complainant and also whether the complaint has special considerations to be taken into account — issues such as the security of the complaint, confidentiality, or available evidence that should be dealt with at the planning stage.

The investigation shall be for the purposes of establishing the facts and exploring options for resolution. The investigation itself should be carried out in an impartial manner. Confidentiality shall be maintained and great care taken to ensure the complainant's privacy is protected and their safety is not imperiled through exposure of his or her identity.

3.3.7 Review/ authentication of evidence

Both the complainant and respondent must be treated fairly and given the chance to advance/respond to claims/allegations and/or produce any relevant evidence. The parties shall be given adequate opportunity to be heard before the designated complaints officer. Parties may object to the hearing of their complaints by officer/s that they suspect may be biased against them. All matters shall be handled in a manner that complies with the Constitution and the laws of Kenya.

3.3.8 Responding to/Resolving the Complaint

Resolving the complaint involves addressing the issue(s) complained about and offering the best possible remedy in the circumstances. The complaint shall be dealt with in an equitable and objective manner. An officer who has any interest in the matter shall disqualify themselves from handling the case. Complex matters may involve mediation, negotiation or conciliation. The complaints handling officer shall have an open mind and examine the evidence objectively.

The remedies for addressing the complaints shall be clearly set out and the parties shall all be aware of the possible solutions. The complaints handling officers shall be empowered to provide the remedies at the appropriate levels, i.e., front office. The complainant shall be informed of the decision reached and reasons shall be given for the decision by the complaints officer. Any decision reached shall be communicated within 30 days. The complaints mechanism shall have an appeal or review provision for those who are dissatisfied with the decision of the complaints officer of first instance. The appeal or review process shall also be simple and fast.

3.3.9 Recommendation for Resolution by Others
